FINE ACTING BY THE GRADUATES
SENIORS PRESENTED CLASS PLAY
LAST EVENING.
THE MANOEUVRES OF JANE

An English Comedy Given by Excellent Cast Before Packed House at High School.

"The Manoeuvres of Jane," as presented by a cast from the class of '09, was played before a capacity house at the high school last evening and was a success from start to finish. The rush for a desirable place from which to view the performance began shortly after seven o'clock and before eight o'clock the auditorium was well filled, and many who had expected to be able to secure tickets at the door were disappointed.

The Plot
The play is a four-act comedy by Henry Arthur Jones. The setting of the scenes are in England, the action taking place in the home of Lord Bapchild in the southern part of the island, a room in the Maple Inn and in the home of Miss Dodd.

The Manoeuvres of Jane were in evading all efforts of her father to force her to give up the man she loved and in finally securing his consent to allow her to marry him. The hero in the drama is George Langton, the man whom Jane Nangle loves. To prevent his daughter from commencing with this man, Mr. Nangle takes her to the Bapchild estate, where he puts her in the care of Mrs. Bapchild, who for six years kept a school for young ladies.

Other principals in the comedy are Constantine Gage, Miss Nangle's dearest friend; Lord Bapchild, a wealthy but rather weak-willed English noble who has a large estate, and Jervis Panshon, uncle of Lord Bapchild. Other parts in the cast are Pamela Bapchild, the awkward and inequitable child of Mrs. Bapchild, Catherine; Lady Bapchild, Lord Bapchild's mother; Miss Dodd, a maiden lady; Mr. Pawsey and Mrs. Pawsey, the landlords of the "Maple Inn," and his wife; Prebendary Bantock and Mrs. and Miss Bantock; Sir Robert and Miss Bantock; First and Second Footmen, and Trondell, a servant in the Bapchild household.

In the first act, Jane is brought to the Bapchild home to be put under Miss Bapchild's care in the hope that she can train the girl and break her of her waywardness and obstinacy in regard to the wishes of her father. Jane dislikes the place and plainly tells Mrs. Bapchild what she may expect. On the same day that Jane arrives George Langton, her lover, makes application for the position as steward of the estate of Lord Bapchild and is engaged by him.

Before he is accepted, however, he and Jane meet and when she learns that he has applied for the place she decides to deceive them all and get her George. Just as the two are in a fond embrace and talking over their plans Pamela Bapchild suspecting something comes in and threatens to tell on them, but is bluffed into silence by Jane. Meanwhile Panshon and Mrs. Bapchild and Mr. Nangle have planned to bring about a match between Lord Bapchild and Jane. Constantine Gage, poor but proud, decides to try and capture the vacillating but rich young noble.

Six months later matters in the household at Bapchild and Jane are at a standstill. Bapchild receiving no encouragement and being too stupid to start anything. Panshon and Mrs. Bapchild, therefore, discuss it and it is decided that Bapchild shall row Jane across the river to meet her father who is coming to see why things are not going as they should. Bapchild agrees to their plans and agrees to propose to Jane on the way. Jane and Miss Gage plot together and make arrangements with Langton for an elopement that night. Miss Gage to take Jane's place on the boatride.

Constance leaves with Bapchild and Jane departs for Milton, where she is to meet Langton at the Maple Inn. Constance (Miss Gage) to join them there and go with them to London, where they will be married. Pamela again "buts in" here and it is necessary to change their plans so as to get rid of her and prevent her from giving away their secret. Word is brought that as Constance and Bapchild are midway in the stream one of the oars breaks and the other is lost, the tide carrying them.

Jane goes to the inn in Milton as agreed and gets into a fume awaiting for Constance and Langton. Langton finally appears after the landlady, Tawney, has threatened to put her out on account of the lateness of the hour. Pamela has followed him so closely, he has had to bring her with him and leaves her in Milton. Jane and Langton quarrel, their engagement is broken off and they agree to return to the Bapchild home in the morning. Langton securing accommodations for Jane with Mrs. Pawsey. He says he will go to California, where he has been offered a position and Jane weeps as if her heart would break.

The scene then changes and we find Constance and Bapchild safe and sound, but much bedraggled by their adventure seeking refuge and food at the home of a maiden lady. The maiden lady is shocked when Bapchild tells they are not engaged, but Constance makes him change this statement. The maiden lady decides to go to her pastor to get advice as to what to do. Constance improves the occasion and before the stupid Bapchild realizes what has happened they embrace and are engaged in fact.

"Rain before seven, clear before eleven," might have been the caption of the final act, the climax of which occurs next morning. Mrs. Bapchild is heart-broken over the loss of her son and Mrs. Bapchild the disappearance of her daughter. Word is received from the missing ones and they made their appearance. It is decided that perhaps it is best that Bapchild should marry Constance and she immediately begins to bully him by preventing him from going to see a favorite horse and dragging him away to talk to her mother. Langton and Jane make up and agree to go to America providing her father will not consent to the marriage. Nangle however is

NEW STATION AGENT
CAME THIS MORNING

F. W. Zimmerman Came Today to Take Position Left Vacant by Promotion of W. A. Johnson.

Fred W. Zimmerman, the newly appointed passenger and freight agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul R. R. at Janesville, arrived at 10:30 this morning from Ottumwa, Iowa, and immediately assumed the duties of the position, left vacant by the promotion of Walter A. Johnson. Mr. Zimmerman, who is well known to railroad men in and about Janesville and has been in the employ of the St. Paul road for twenty-three years, having held positions at Avoca, Wis., Lone Rock, Monroe and Ottumwa, Iowa. His work has been acceptable as shown in part by the following words from the Ottumwa Courier, upon the occasion of the announcement of his promotion to the post in this city:

"The removal of Agent Zimmerman from Ottumwa is a well merited promotion and comes as a recognition of his abilities as an agent and following a faithful and successful service of the Milwaukee Road of twenty-three years. The new field of endeavor which Mr. Zimmerman takes up will be somewhat larger than he had here, as the road enters Janesville from five directions, three divisions have their terminals there and an immense amount of freight and passenger traffic passes through there. He has made a large number of friends among the shippers of Ottumwa, and not restricted to the business world, his friends regret his leaving Ottumwa after but eight months' residence, and wish him success in good measure in his new field of operation in Janesville."

Mr. Zimmerman began his railroad career as an operator in Avoca, Wis., in 1886 and in the following year was sent to Lone Rock. His next position was at Monroe, where he served as operator and clerk for fifteen years. Upon the retirement of Mr. Puffer he became agent and held that position until Oct. 29, 1908, when he accepted the joint agency of the Milwaukee and Walworth roads at Ottumwa, Iowa, which he has held successfully until his promotion to the Janesville agency on the fifteenth of this month.

CHIPPEWA BAND FOR COURT HOUSE PARK

Chief Deputy U. S. Marshal Appleby Sends Letter to Flambeau Reservation Asking for Wild Redskins.

Announcement that Janesville would have another rollicking celebration of Independence day—this time on Monday, July 5—was received with enthusiasm on every side, yesterday, and the return of the Sonesuch Bros., burlesque circus was a topic on all tongues last evening. It was conceded that the big carnival pageant this year would have to outclass all past performances, both in size and originality, that every resource would have to be drawn on, and that in order to make it a success, everybody would have to jump right into the game and stay there until the finish. The ingenuity of all the amateur showmen will be taxed to the uttermost but they will make good. There isn't a shadow of a doubt on that score.

Chief Deputy United States Marshal W. H. Appleby came here from Madison last night to consult with the committee regarding the proposed Indian village in the Court House park. Over half a century had passed since the wigwags of any Wisconsin Indians were pitched within the corporate limits of Janesville and it is believed that this proposed feature will lend a picturesque aspect to the entire celebration and prove a big drawing card. At the conclusion of the conference, Mr. Appleby sent the following letter to the Chippewa Indian reservation in Vilas county:

"Janesville, Wis., June 16, 1909.
"William Ebert, Esq.,
"Lac du Flambeau, Wis.
"Friend William:—

"I was down to Janesville today and some of the businessmen wished me to communicate with you and see if it would be possible to get 10 or 12 bucks and squaws to come here on July 5th. They are getting up a celebration here and wish, among other attractions, to have an Indian village.

"It would be necessary for the Indians to bring some tomahawks and moccasins, and some of the businessmen would like to see you in your wigwag, and all as you know we would want them to look like the real thing. If you will kindly consent Mr. Sleslow in this matter and secure his cooperation, the committee at Janesville will arrange for transportation both ways, subsistence, etc., and will pay the Indians a fair compensation besides. They would have the privilege of selling any handwork, moccasins, etc., which they might bring with them.

"Eight or nine bucks, four or five squaws, and a papoose or two would make about the right kind of a band. It would be a fine outing for them and they would be benefited financially.

"You know, William, that we would want them in their wildest dress. I will be there, personally, and will see to it that not over half of them are killed outright, unless you wish them all killed. I would suggest that such handsome fellows as Jim Gray and John Whitefeather, and old Amie Wabla, for instance, might like to come.

"After consulting with Mr. Sleslow and deciding what you can do about the matter, wish you would drop lines to George D. Simpson, Janesville, Wis. Please answer as soon as possible and oblige.

"Your friend,
"WILLIAM H. APPLEBY."

TWO WEDDINGS IN
MILTON JUNCTION

Miss Cora Kidder United in Marriage to E. G. Jones—Wall-Howell Nuptials Celebrated.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton Junction, June 17.—The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Kidder, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Cora Kidder and E. G. Jones were made husband and wife. The solemn words were spoken by the Rev. A. Porter of the M. E. church at high noon. After the ceremony and hearty congratulations, the guests, about one hundred in number, repaired to the dinner table, which were arranged under three large canopies in the yard, where a three-course dinner was served. Mr. Jones, of Janesville, acted as caterer, being ably assisted by eight young and pretty ladies as waiters. Mr. and Mrs. Jones departed on the 3 o'clock train to parts unknown. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Kidder, and is one of our best-known and highly esteemed young ladies. She was born in this community and graduated from our high school, and afterwards has been one of our best teachers in the graded school work here, teaching the eighth grade for the past ten years. Mr. Jones came here from New York about fourteen years ago and entered the employ of Chambers & Owen as clerk, afterwards going on the road as traveling salesman, a position which he held till last February, when he resigned to accept a similar position with Ray Lewis & Bros. Co. of Milwaukee. They are expected home soon, when they will start housekeeping at once in their new home on Second street recently purchased by Mr. Jones, and where everything is in readiness. The presents were many and beautiful. A large quantity of cut glass and silverware was received. The bride was beautifully gowned in white lace over white silk and the groom wore the conventional black. The house was decorated with locust measure in his new field of operation in Janesville.

The exhibition last evening was a credit to the training given the cast by Mrs. Day and to the cast for the way in which they performed under her instructions. The only thing marring the pleasure was the weather, the downpour of the rain making it hard for those further back to hear what was being said. A more clever portrayal of the wilful, contrary Jane than that of Marion Blodgett could not have been given. Phillip Korst as the English noble also scored a hit with the audience with his miming, concealed ways. John Sheridan was quite as insistent as the man described by the playwright. Phoebe McManus and Hazel Setzer gave excellent reproductions of the parts of Lady Bapchild and Mrs. Bapchild. Verna Mowse brought the scheming, flatterer and then commanding qualities of Constantine Gage extraordinarily well. Lauretta Connell's impersonation of Pamela Bapchild was very good. Graham Melay as Prebendary Bantock, John Kimball as Mr. Pawsey, Victor Gilbreath as Sir Robert Bantock, Anna Dawson as Mrs. Bantock, Latella Howarth as Miss Bantock, and Ellen Hull, Nellie Goddard, Edith Kemp, Hazel Randall, Robert Chase and Richard Jones took well in the roles assigned to them.

The Janesville Symphony orchestra furnished the opening musical number and played between acts.

blossoms, the ceremony being performed under a heavy bower of the same. The wedding march was played by Miss Leora Price on the violin, accompanied by Miss Lynda Baten on the piano. The young couple are both highly esteemed by all and everyone joins in wishing them much happiness in their life's journey. At 4 o'clock the solemn words were again spoken by the Rev. Porter at the Hotel Wall, when Miss Beside Wall, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wall, was joined in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Marvin Howell of Milwaukee. The ceremony took place before only a small gathering of relatives. A very dainty wedding dinner was served after the ceremony and the bridal couple left on the 5 o'clock train for Delavan Lake, where they will stay the remainder of the week, then will make their home in Milwaukee. ### ELECTRIC MAILING MACHINE.

Labor Saving Device That Will Stamp Many Letters in a Short Space of Time.

A labor and time saving device which finds a wide application in business houses, in handling the outgoing mail, is the electrically driven envelope sealer, stamper and counter. The machine will readily perform its various operations on 150 letters per minute, and may be speeded up to turn out considerably more when required.

The letters in bunches are held against an automatic feed which permits only one envelope at a time to pass its flap over a metal disk which revolves in water. As the envelope advances the stamps are fed forward, cut off, moistened and rolled upon the passing letter. After the envelope flap is moistened the stamp simultaneously, attached, the letter passes between a series of rolls under pressure, and then emerges and is automatically stacked. A counter records each stamp as it passes upon the envelope, and thus furnishes a check upon the amount spent for postage. Moreover, the stamps cannot be removed from the machine except by the one to whom the key is entrusted. The source of power being furnished by an electric motor, no labor is involved in the operation of the machine except the feeding of the letters in bunches. The motor is attached by a flexible lamp cord to an ordinary electric lighting socket, and to start the machine it is only necessary to turn the switch. A 1/2 horsepower motor will do the work, so that the charge for current is negligible.

HEART RULED BY BRAIN.

Remarkable Interchange of Vital Force Between Them, Says Frederic Campbell, Sc.D.

There is a remarkable interchange of vital force between the brain and the heart. Neither organ can work without the stimulation of the other. If the heart's action becomes weak, blood is not sent to the brain in sufficient volume to stimulate it, and unconsciousness follows; laying the sufferer on the back makes it easier for the blood to flow to the brain, consciousness returns and the faint is over. On the other hand, the heart itself receives stimulus from the brain, which is the great nervous dynamo of the entire system, and sends its powerful energy through the spinal cord to all the organs. Sudden accident often so shocks the nervous system that the brain is unable to send the necessary stimulus, and then the heart's action is impaired or falls entirely; death follows. The same effect is sometimes produced by purely mental causes, such as sudden bad news, fright, or whatever stirs up anger or other excitement. The sudden exposure of guilt has often so paralyzed the brain that the heart has no longer obtained from it the necessary stimulus and has ceased its action; this means death. A calm mind and a clear conscience are the scientific basis of a healthy heart and a steady heart.

New Teapot That Separates Leaves.
An ingenious teapot is described in Popular Mechanics. A strainer occupies one-half of its upper part, and in this is placed the tea leaves. The pot is then set in vertical position and the boiling water is poured in until the lower part is filled almost to the height of the bottom of the strainer. The pot is then tipped backward onto its back and in this horizontal position the water floods the strainer and is impregnated with the tea. When the infusion is thought to be sufficient, the pot is again righted, this action separating the tea from the tea leaves.

Short Life of Buildings.
Probably not one out of every 10,000 buildings standing in all parts of the world and built by modern means will be standing 500 years hence. We do not know how to put stones and bricks together as the ancients did, and consequently the buildings we raise nowadays are really mere temporary structures, and will be in ruins when the ancient buildings of Greece and Egypt, built thousands of years ago, are in as good condition as they are now.

AN EAR-PIERCING AUTO HORN.

One That Will at Once Attract the Attention of Any One in Path of Car.

An automobile horn can hardly be classed as a musical instrument. Its office is not to produce a soothing tone, but to emit a sound so startling and ear-piercing as to excite immediate action on the part of pedestrians in the path of the car, says the Scientific American. This requirement of a variety of sound producers. The latest contribution along this line is a small instrument, which produces a sound so entirely new that it is very difficult to describe it. When driven at low speed the sound resembles a growl or roar, but as the speed is increased, the sound ranges up to a shriek or yell, which is totally unlike and far more penetrating than the sound produced by a siren whistle. The accompanying illustrations show how this is produced. The instrument proper is indicated at A, and is operated by means of a flexible shaft B, connected to a friction wheel C, which bears on the flywheel of the engine. The tone is varied by pressing the wheel C more or less firmly against the flywheel. The friction disk C is mounted on one arm of a bell crank lever, to the other arm of which a chain D is attached. This chain runs to the steering column of the car. Within the casing A is a cam wheel F, which is formed along its periphery with a series of swells. These cam swells are adapted to strike a small anvil mounted on a diaphragm H. In front of the diaphragm is a horn G, which may be of any suitable shape. In operation, when the chain D is pulled, the wheel C is brought into contact with the flywheel, and by means of the flexible shaft B the cam wheel F is set in motion. The latter vibrates the diaphragm violently by rapidly striking the anvil, and the piercing sound is thus produced. In addition to the construction here shown, the new horn is arranged to be operated by a small electric motor, directly connected to the cam. Furthermore, a hand-operated horn of this type is made, in which the cam is driven by a hand crank. This should be useful on boats, as the sound produced penetrates fog easily.

Details of the Friction Drive.

War Balloons for the French Navy.

The French minister of war has recently given out specifications for a new series of dirigible balloons. These specifications are in part as follows: Speed, 50 kilometers (31.05 miles) an hour to be maintained for 15 hours while carrying six passengers of a mean weight of 165 pounds each. The test before acceptance must be made over a 210-mile circuit against a wind of seven meters per second (15 miles an hour), and must be a continuous flight of 15 hours at an altitude which, for two-thirds of the time must be greater than 1,500 meters (4,921 feet). The airship must pass over certain fixed points. It must be able to ascend to a height of 2,000 meters (6,560 feet) with safety. A prize of $1,000 will be given to the competitor submitting the best plans, and smaller prizes to the other competitors.

CATCHER STANAGE OF DETROIT, BACKSTOPPING FINE OF THE SEASON.

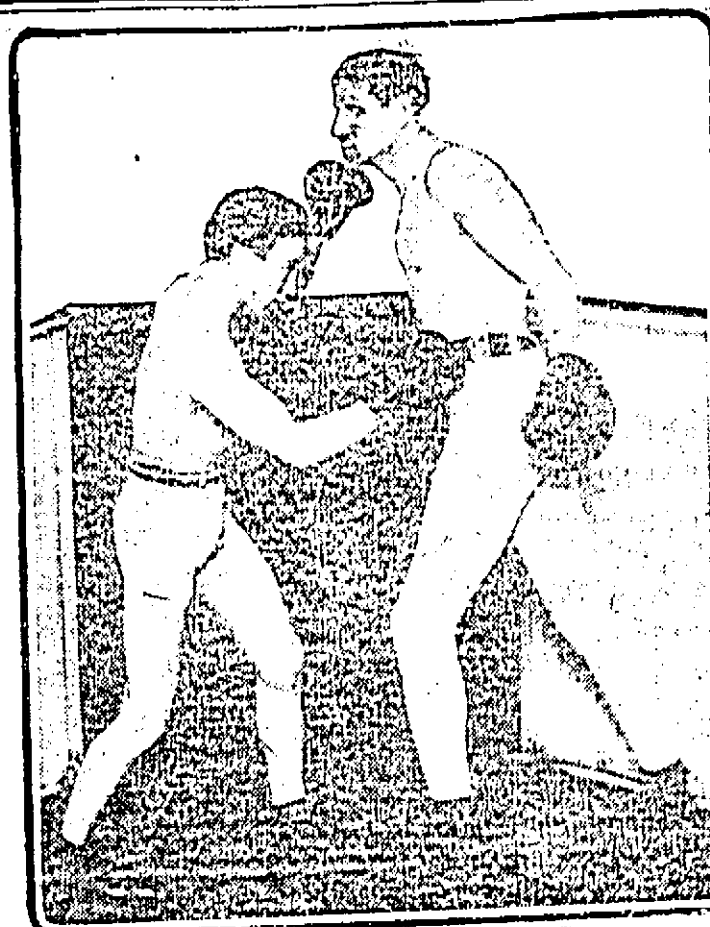

One of the sensations of the season is Catcher Stanage of Detroit, the backstop that was purchased from the Newark club of the Eastern League last year after Detroit scouts had gone up and down the country looking them over for a backstop that could not be relied upon as a catcher for Jennings, with Charley Schmidt talking about a shoe store he was going to run in Arkansas, Stanage dug in and made good. For weeks he led the slugging Tigers in their blinding and caught pretty ball. The maintenance of anything near the gate that he has started off with will make Stanage one of the most worthy of the year's youngsters. Certainly he is by far the best catcher uncovered this season.

The tablet on Cabin John's Bridge again bears name of Jefferson Davis.

Washington, D. C.—The tablet on Cabin John's bridge is again complete. After years of delay the name of Jefferson Davis appears on the tablet and joy reigns in the south over the victory of a long fight. The bridge was commenced during the presidency of Franklin Pierce and until the act of President Roosevelt ordered that received. This marks a triumph for the persistent efforts of the people of the south to remove the blot on the memory of President Jefferson Davis. Building A. D. 1861, President of the U. S. to every mother. It is taken from a recent Chicago paper and quotes Nathan Straus, a financier and philanthropist.

In Janesville every mother can safeguard her family by buying our Pure Pasteurized Milk. It costs no more than the raw milk and it is absolutely pure.

Some dealers deliver so-called pasteurized milk, but it is what is known as being "pasteurized commercially" simply to prevent it from souring.

Our Pure Pasteurized Milk is pasteurized so that it will be free from disease. We heat our milk in pasteurizing up to 165 degrees and keep it at that temperature for 1 minute. This assures you of pure milk, tubercular and other disease germs being destroyed.

Every piece of machinery, every bottle and every utensil is thoroughly washed and sterilized with live steam every day. Hands do not touch the milk from beginning to the end of the process. Don't be satisfied with milk that has even the slightest suspicion of not being pasteurized properly.

Stop our wagon. It passes your door every day, or phone us now.

DECLARATION OF BARBERS

"We assert in most emphatic language that it is not our purpose to turn Milwaukee into a puritanical city. We believe with those who believe that Sunday shall be a day for recreation, such as picnics, baseball, theater, or other places of amusement, and that they shall have the same uninterrupted right and opportunity as those who wish to attend church."
This is the declaration of the Milwaukee barbers who recently organized for the purpose of adding in enforcing the new Sunday closing law. While this law is opposed by a handful of Milwaukee artisans, the claim is made that it is legally approved by 95 per cent of the barbers throughout the state.

The above plain statement of belief, however, indicates the strength of the personal liberty sentiment in the Green City. The question is not keeping the Sabbath as will be seen by the following.
After effecting permanent organization as the Milwaukee branch of the Wisconsin Barbers' association, and electing officers who pledged themselves to prosecute to the full extent of the law, any violator or journeyman barber who violates the Sunday closing statute, the Milwaukee barbers, in a mass meeting, issued an appeal to citizens Monday night for their moral support in enforcing Sunday closing.

Euphonia was laid by them upon the fact that they are emphatically opposed to any curtailment of Sunday amusements, closing of saloons, or interfering with any other business, but the barbers, they declare, is by reason of his occupation, obliged to work long hours, day and night, in confining places, and is in much need of Sunday rest, and the nature of the business is such as to render keeping open on Sunday wholly unnecessary either for his own benefit or the convenience of the public.

This sentiment, much as it may be deplored by church-going people, is not confined to Milwaukee nor to the craft under discussion. To many people the Sabbath is a holiday and the church commands but little attention. Any laws which attempt to interfere are called puritanical, and all efforts to compel people to observe the Sabbath have been futile. Customs of the old world are in a measure responsible, but American-born citizens are ready imitators. The moral uplift has not yet solved the problem of Sabbath observance.

THE BLOODY SHIRT

To Congressman Ellison of Mississippi belongs the honor of attempting to flout the bloody shirt and revive the equally long since forgotten. The breaching representative said in an address at the confederate reunion in Memphis, the other day:
"The greatest monument in your honor are the millions of pensions the federal government pays to the widows and orphans your valor made, and the 46,000 graves in Arlington cemetery."

The press of the south denounce the speaker in vigorous terms, and the sentiment expressed voices the popular sentiment throughout the southern states. The Louisville Herald has this to say:
"Men like Ellison are a discredit to their comrades. They have no place in a federal congress. Utterances such as his are treason alike to the union and the new spirit that breathes in the south. He should be disowned by his wiser and broader-minded associates, not because what he says will have any weight, but because he casts discredit upon the fair name of confederate honor."

The Congressman Ellison says:
"The Confederation of Mississippi does not know, apparently, that the south is so busy becoming a great, thriving, patriotic empire that her people have no time for bloody shirts, sectional prejudices, bloodthirsty vapors and the other kinds of callow stuff of which the Mississippi is so prolific a spouter. That he disgusted many of the confederate veterans whom he was addressing goes without saying. That he disgusted many southerners who were not there and who hold unflinching loyalty to the south he will probably find out before he grows much older. His trouble seems to be a maximum of tongue and a minimum of brains."

RAILROADS NEVER FINISHED

"A man can plan and build a house which will suitably and comfortably meet all the requirements of himself and family for 10 or 20 years to come. It does not often happen that any radical changes are made in a skyscraper when once completed. A ship is equipped and put in service and she carries the same masts, masts, and compartments until she is wrecked or goes into the harbor."
"The house will need repainting occasionally, and now shingles at long or intervals; the elevator ropes in the office building wear out but they are replaced by like; and the ship may lose an anchor, requiring the purchase of another. The changes in all these are of comparatively trifling moment, but—
"A railroad is never finished. It comes to grow it begins to wither. There must be continuous expansion and enlargement. Larger cars require more powerful locomotives, and both in turn call for heavier rails, bigger round houses, stronger bridges, longer platforms and sidings, increased safety devices, while the straightening of curves and the leveling of grades come in for their share of attention on even the oldest roads. Little wonder, then, with our railroads consuming nearly one-half of all our manufactured steel and iron and fully one-half of all the lumber made each year, that they are the unflinching barometer of the business activity of the nation."

—H. H. WINDSOR in July Popular Magazine.
These are facts worth remembering for they suggest the necessity for increased capital from time to time, to keep pace with demands as well as the more important fact that the railroads are the heaviest home customers in the market. The writer might have added that these corporations furnish employment to a larger force of men than any other industry. It may be popular to fight railroads, but the penitence lacks the first element of common sense.

Five days in the workhouse for exceeding the speed limit was the sentence pronounced by Judge Smith of Minneapolis on Ralph Shull, a wealthy lumberman. Shull is working out his time and says the punishment is all right as he deserved it. The judge claimed that money fines were ineffective.

Mr. Bryan said in Chicago yesterday that he was not a candidate for the United States senate, and that he knew nothing about the new party to be headed by La Follette and himself. The managers of this new aggregation will find it quite difficult to attach Bryan's name to the tail end of any ticket.

The metal and steel manufacturers of Pittsburgh have decided to establish the open shop, and as a result 10,000 workmen will strike July 1st. There is no question about the outcome as the open shop principle is rapidly gaining ground. It is the only right principle and common justice will aid in enforcing it.

While one inventor is experimenting with bottled sunshine as an energy for light and heat, another is attempting to do the same thing with the wind. When the two forces are properly harnessed and equipped for business they will make a reliable team for all kinds of weather.

A carload of alligators, on which the freight was $300, was shipped from New Orleans to Los Angeles, a few days ago. The reptiles will contribute to the park attractions of the California city.

For the third time the supreme court of Illinois has declared the primary law of that state unconstitutional. If the same fate could befall the Wisconsin law, it would be a good thing for the state.

The income tax will be indefinitely postponed, or until made legal by constitutional amendment and that is not likely to occur very soon.

COUNTRY GIRL IN THE CITY.

"To stay at home is best."

You may quote the homely old adage in vain to the girl whose ambitious dreams lure her away from the country place or the village to the city.

And often the girl who stays at home envies the girl who goes away. Distance lends enchantment to the view. The dream of city life is like a glittering present in the shifting kaleidoscope of the girl's aspirations. She sees only the bright lights.

More and more the city swallows up the pure womanhood and manhood of the country. Already more than half of the people of the United States live in cities, and the proportion grows larger yearly.

This is how it is:
The girl of town or country grows tired of teaching district school or clerking in the village store or staying on the farm. She goes to the city to realize her dream of life.

At the first she is delighted—enamored of the glare and glitter. Here, she thinks, is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things seen in her visions.

Then comes disillusion. The awful loneliness of the crowd comes upon her. The sordid surroundings of her cheap boarding house, the comparison of her frumpy dresses with the tailored suits of well-dressed women—these things lead to heart-aches and wretchedness. She is a stranger in a strange land.

Four models:
If she is made of strong moral fiber she will come through it all and save her womanhood and self respect, but she will also grow a little callous of heart and mind. In opposing her selfishness to the sordid selfishness of her world some of the bloom of innocence is likely to disappear.

If there is a weakness somewhere in her moral armor her very virtues of innocence and trustfulness may lead to her undoing.

To stay at home is best.
To be sure, it is quiet down on the farm or in the village, but the monotony is as nothing to the aching loneliness that comes in the midst of strange crowds. And there are a fullness of happy comradeship and a friendliness of contact among the home folks that are never to be found elsewhere.

Besides, should the country girl be able to win her way in the city and save her soul, what has she gained over the home life?

Experience; that is all.
To stay at home is best.

Uncle Walt of Emporia

By WALT MASON
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

If you must tell your tale of grief, to mortal ears, O friends, be brief! We all have cares and woes to burn, and find some more wherever we turn, and as we paddled down the years, we had our share of scalding tears. This we discovered long ago: The more we talked about our woes, the less we knew of joy and peace; and folks would call for the police when they beheld us on their trail, or heard us letting out a wail. And so at last, with queenly grace, we ceased to haunt the waiting place; we dried our tears and wore a grin that reached from either ear to chin, and when we had a grief or care, we smothered the blamed thing with a chair, and went around and told the boys long stories of our humble joys, and scorned all the day of blues—and pretty soon we noticed this: Folks greeted us with faces gay, and threw our cabbage over our way. Don't mind your sorrows in a sheaf, and pack around a load of grief; the wise man tells how good he feels, throws up his hat, kicks up his heels!

Maybe the reason some women can love the little onery, shaggy, off-colored thing with hair all in its eyes, which charity permits you to call a dog, better than their husbands is that the average wife selects her husband out of a job lot.—New York Press.

By WALT MASON
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

If you must tell your tale of grief, to mortal ears, O friends, be brief! We all have cares and woes to burn, and find some more wherever we turn, and as we paddled down the years, we had our share of scalding tears. This we discovered long ago: The more we talked about our woes, the less we knew of joy and peace; and folks would call for the police when they beheld us on their trail, or heard us letting out a wail. And so at last, with queenly grace, we ceased to haunt the waiting place; we dried our tears and wore a grin that reached from either ear to chin, and when we had a grief or care, we smothered the blamed thing with a chair, and went around and told the boys long stories of our humble joys, and scorned all the day of blues—and pretty soon we noticed this: Folks greeted us with faces gay, and threw our cabbage over our way. Don't mind your sorrows in a sheaf, and pack around a load of grief; the wise man tells how good he feels, throws up his hat, kicks up his heels!

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

TWO BITS OF WOOD FOR VIOLIN

The Importance of Making and Placing Strip of Wood for Sounding Bar.

Importance cannot be reduced to a matter of size. The success of a piece of work may depend on a tiny detail. Such is the case in regard to that marvel of construction, the violin. Rev. H. R. Hawley in his "My Musical Life" tells of the care and labor expended on two little pieces of wood which go to make up the perfect whole.

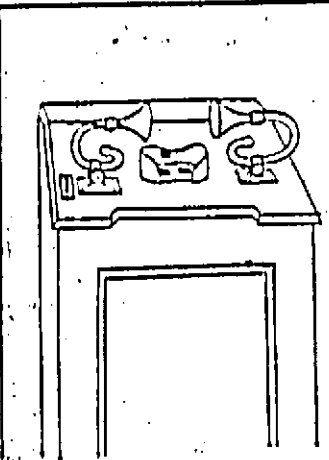

The sound-bar is a strip of pine wood running obliquely under the left foot of the bridge. A slight mistake in its position, looseness, or inequality or roughness of finish will produce that hollow, tooth-on-edge growl called "wolf." It takes great cunning and a life of practical study to know how long and how thick the sound-bar must be, and exactly where to place it, in each instrument.

The sound-post is a little prop, like a short bit of a cedar pencil. It is the soul of the violin, and through it pour all vibrations. Days and weeks are spent in adjusting the tiny sound-post. Its position exhausts the patience of the maker, and makes the joy or the misery of the player.

CAN BOTH SING AND TALK.

Newly Invented Device Used in Connection with Moving Picture Apparatus.

In view of the success which is obtained by the moving-picture apparatus, the idea naturally occurred to use the phonograph in connection with it, so as to hear the voice at the same time that we see the picture. Among such devices is a combined talking and picture-exhibiting machine recently devised and patented by a New York man. At the top is an opening for viewing the pictures, and adjacent thereto, where they will come in contact with the ears of the user, are sound tubes. The latter are adjustable to accommodate the many sizes of heads naturally encountered. In making the pictures for these moving pictures that sing and talk the actor takes his position before the camera, and his movements are photographed. Coupled with the moving picture machine is a phonograph. While the latter is repeating the actor's words he goes through the necessary motions to accompany the words. The moving picture machine thus secures the photographic record of the series of gestures during the whole time that the phonograph is working. Duplicates of the pictures are then made from the original for use in the penny-in-the-slot machine, the mechanism operating the phonograph in connection with the moving of the pictures.

Pictures and Music Simultaneously.

While the world in which we live is filled with wonder and beauty, there is a prison in which all its inhabitants are prisoners. The invisible tie of gravitation is the bond that binds us, and none can break it or free himself from it. Whether deep in the mines, on the sea, on the mountain-top, or sailing our balloon through the clouds, we are rigidly held, day and night. As compared with the rest of creation, the earth is so small that it may be regarded as but the narrow cell in which we are confined. We may move about the cell, but not out of it. We may look out, and that is indeed a very great privilege. But when we discover how vast are the far-reaching spaces of the universe, and how innumerable are its worlds, in sun, moon, planets and stars, we feel the narrowness of our confinement more than ever. Life prisoners we are, doomed here to stay till we die, though confident that life is more than a term of imprisonment, and that some day sentence will expire; and no longer traveling the universe only in thought, we shall take great strides whithersoever we will, and taste the joys of perfect freedom.

Tie of Gravitation, Says Frederic Campbell, Sc.D., Holds Us in Bond.

From Trains to Stockings. From the gigantic task of hauling freight and passenger trains over the electrified branch of the Canadian Pacific, the Arctook Falls, in Maine, perform such little chores as knitting stockings. The falls have recently been harnessed to drive electric generators which supply current to the railroad and to the knitting mills of the vicinity.

Brightened Away. When love flies out of the window to hunt for a job, poverty never comes near the door.—Life.

Did Not Know Value of Find. Recently the British barque Antelope sailed from Newcastle, Australia, to San Francisco. On the voyage a great quantity of grease was seen floating on the surface of the ocean. A calm prevailed at the time, and the sailors drew up many bucketsful. With this grease they anointed the masts, their sea boots and clothing. They regarded their find as ordinary grease and wasted it as such. As a matter of fact, the grease was ambergris, and the waste of material worth something like $20,000.

English Women Smoke Cigarettes. A dealer in cigarettes in London says that the practice of cigarette smoking is increasing rapidly among women in the higher circles. His firm has sold 100 per cent. more of cigarettes to women this year than it did last. Among recent purchasers on a large scale was the queen of Spain, who bought, however, for the purpose of making gifts to her friends. She has ordered a number of red morocco cases, with the Spanish arms on the tip in gold, each to contain 22 varieties of cigarettes.

GOOD SHOW WINDOW ILLUSION

A new idea in window displays which could doubtless be used as a novelty is described in the Merchants' Record and Show Window. The construction is very simple and the illustration will show the proper setting for the display. The platform is first constructed, which should be about 12 inches high. On this platform make a frame of light lumber, as shown in Fig.

Instead of the reflections of the sides. The appearance to him is that he can see all around the pedestal. The person demonstrating stands back of the mirrors and close up against the pedestal and bowl. Only the head and shoulders should be visible, which will appear to rest in the bowl.

The illustration, Fig. 3, shows a display made for millinery. In this case a young woman stood behind the

1. Over the two sides and back of this frame are draped goods of some solid dark color such as deep green. In the middle is placed a pedestal, which is cut out along its entire length as shown in Fig. 2. The top is made of a large wooden bowl having a section of the back cut out to admit the form of a young man, making it appear as if the bowl were filled.

The placing of the mirrors is shown in Fig. 1. They fit into the groove in the pedestal and extend diagonally back to the two rear corners. When the mirrors are properly fitted they will reflect the two sides of the booth. To the spectator in front it seems that he is looking at the back of the booth pedestal with a hat of one style and by having several hats lying back of the mirrors she could disappear, make a change of headgear and reappear to the mystification of the crowd in front of the window. The remainder of the show window can be made to harmonize with the covering of the booth. The illusion scheme is a good one to use on special occasions, such as during carnivals or street fairs. Its success depends upon the careful fitting of the mirrors and the manner in which the curtains are arranged. The middle of the booth should be comparatively dark and the curtains should hang straight, otherwise the scheme may be detected.

JOLTS MRS. GOULD, TROTTER TESTIFIES

WITNESS DENIES POISON STORY AND TELLS OF MORE "JAGS."

SAYS SHE CURSED SERVANTS

Carpenter Employed at Millionaire's Castle Gives Damaging Testimony—Coachman Swears He Held Her in Carriage When She Was "Tipsy."

New York, June 17.—Denial that an attempt was made to poison Mrs. Howard Gould and further testimony that she often was intoxicated and used language ill suited to the tongue of the wife of a multi-millionaire were features in her sensational suit for a separation.

Coachman, gardener, chambermaid and other servants went on the stand and swore to the demeanor of the woman who used to give them orders. An occasion when she would have fallen from her carriage but for the protecting arm of a coachman, an attempt of her to drive through a closed gate, a time when a footman saved her from falling when intoxicated, as he testified, were among the things alleged as Long Island rustic or former servant went on and passed from the witness stand.

Will Deny the Charges.

Mrs. Gould was greatly moved as she heard these declarations, and she has evinced her intention of fighting bitterly in rebuttal against them.

A carpenter, Herbert Trotter, said when he was working in the servants' quarters Mrs. Gould rushed in at one time, swore at and abused the servants.

"Her voice was shaky and incoherent, her hair disheveled and she was very profane. She was decidedly drunk," said the witness.

"At another time she came into the stables while I was working there and swore at the groom, and was so drunk that everyone could tell she was drunk," he continued. "She tried to get up stairs to the harness room, but could not navigate the steps," he added emphatically.

Trotter said he was ordered to go to Blue Gap farm, the Gould place in Virginia. On several occasions during the first ten days he was there, he testified, he saw her intoxicated and heard her swear a great deal at the workmen.

Falls with Hall Clock.

"One night she came in from driving drunk," said the witness, "and began to abuse me and a man named 'Tony.' She said to me she wanted the big seven-foot hall clock moved, and I told her I would have to get help, and she said, 'Why, I can move it myself.' She was staggering drunk. She grabbed the heavy clock and both she and the clock fell against the wall together."

Trotter testified that Mrs. Gould was only "occasionally intoxicated" during her stay of ten days at the Blue Gap farm when he was there.

"How many times do you think she was intoxicated during that ten days?" asked Mr. Shearn.

"Every other day," was the reply.

Referring to a time when Trotter said Mrs. Gould fell off a chair and lay on the floor helpless, Mr. Shearn asked:

Didn't "Dope" Her Coffee.

"Didn't you put something in Mrs. Gould's coffee that night at Blue Gap farm?"

"I certainly did not," replied the witness.

"Didn't you get Betty Foster, the colored girl in the kitchen, to put something in Mrs. Gould's coffee?"

"No, I did not."

"Don't you recall that Mrs. Gould accused you of poisoning her at Blue Gap farm?"

"I certainly do not."

"Who was taken sick and fell to the floor directly after she had been eating something, wasn't she?"

"No, it was two hours before she ate," replied the witness.

Mrs. Gould's counsel, in arguing a motion in another part of the supreme court for $20,000 counsel fees and $3,500 for extra expenses, made it clear that the Gould trial will go on for at least a week more and probably will be dragged out for ten days. He declared that he had 50 witnesses ready to rebut the testimony of the defense.

Command War on "Black Hand."

Detroit, Mich., June 17.—The national council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, in session here, went on record as favoring the enactment and enforcement of more stringent immigration laws as a move against the "Black Hand" societies and commended the government secret service for what it has done toward eliminating this evil.

Whiskey Interests Protest.

Washington, June 17.—President Taft has received from the attorneys of several of the whiskey interests concerned in the recent decision of the solicitor general of the United States on the subject of what constitutes a real whiskey, a protest against that decision and a request for an oral hearing before the president.

Missouri Cyclone Is Fatal.

Monett, Mo., June 17.—A cyclone last night killed Andrew McCornick, a farmer, injured seriously his son, Noel, and hurt six other children. The McCornick farmhouse, which is five miles northwest of here, was demolished, the farm building razed and five stock killed.

Irish Industry Growing.

Bacon curing factories are increasing in number in Ireland. The Ros-area factory is worked on the cooperative basis and has 3,800 shareholders, mostly of the small farmer class. It is making a fair profit.

MISS' ELKINS' HEART AFFECTED.

Aliment, Not Meeting with Duke.

Cause of European Trip.

Washington, June 17.—Senator Elkins laughs at the suggestion that his daughter, Miss Katherine, is going to Europe to meet the duke of the Abruzzi. He said the young woman had for some time had a slight heart affection, which is always materially augmented by heat and that her physician had directed that upon the approach of hot weather she should immediately bottle herself to the cooler zones of the European continent.

Miss Elkins will be accompanied by her mother and both will leave whenever the temperature here becomes too high for them. They probably will make a brief visit to West Virginia before beginning their foreign journey.

The senator added that the duke was still engaged in his mountain explorations and probably would not return to Europe during the stay there of his wife and daughter.

ARMED WHILE THEY FARM.

Shooting of Missouri Bull Tiller.

Alarms His Neighbors.

Cowgill, Mo., June 17.—Farmers working in the fields near Tattville, fifteen miles south of here, are doing so with rifles slung over their shoulders. This condition was caused by the murder from ambush of Clyde Hatfield, a young farmer, last Sunday, and the shooting of Henry Berry by "night riders" Sunday, May 30.

The feeling in Tattville is that several men must die or move from the community before the feud ends and peace is restored. Every house in the Tattville district is supplied with firearms. No arrest for the killing of Hatfield probably will be made for several days.

Ship Canal to Open Monday.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 17.—Announcement was made that the Canadian ship canal here, which has been out of commission since the gates of the 1,000-foot lock were wrecked by the steamer Perry G. Walker, will be ready for use again next Monday.

Erle Passenger Train Leaves Rails.

Chatham, N. Y., June 17.—Speeding through Waverly narrows at a mile a minute clip west-bound Erle passenger train No. 9 left the rails. All the passengers were shaken seriously, but only three were bruised badly enough to necessitate removal to a hospital in this city.

Celebrate Statehood Anniversary.

Aberdeen, S. D., June 17.—With an opening attendance of 3,000 persons from outside the city, the three-day celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the statehood of North and South Dakota began with a great industrial parade. Gov. R. S. Vessey of South Dakota was present.

TUBERCULOSIS IN HOGS GROWS.

Government Investigation Shows Increase Among Country's Swine.

Washington, June 17.—Tuberculosis among hogs is on the increase and is causing heavier loss to raisers and packers than any other disease, say reports gathered from the various meat packing centers of the country by the department of agriculture.

A year ago there were more than 55,000,000 hogs in this country, valued at more than $339,000,000. Federal inspection of the abattoirs show two per cent. of the hogs slaughtered to be affected with tuberculosis, while reports from Europe show a far more widespread infection, running as high as 5.5 to 7.5 per cent.

It has been found that hogs contract the disease principally through feeding. Samples of raw skimmed milk fed to hogs from creameries in one of the leading dairy states were injected into guinea pigs and in one instance virulent bacilli were recovered. Hogs from Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas are remarkably free from tuberculosis, due to the fact that they are fed from birth to maturity on alfalfa, oats, corn, rape and peanuts.

AUTO SPEEDER TO PRISON.

Wealthy Minneapolis Lumberman Will Serve Five Days.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 17.—Ralph Shull, a wealthy young lumberman, and secretary of the J. W. Shull Lumber Company of this city, who was sentenced to the workhouse for five days, without the option of a fine, for exceeding the speed limit in his automobile, said he would serve his time. "A man who owns an automobile," said Judge Smith, "can easily pay a fine, therefore a straight workhouse sentence is the only remedy to stop this excessive speeding by automobilists."

"Judge Smith is right," said Mr. Shull. "I am guilty and I will serve my time in the workhouse without any bitter feeling toward the court, although I cannot see why I should have to do so when others are simply fined. I am young and strong and if what friends have told me is true the workhouse is not a bad place to go. I am going to do my work without a murmur whether it is on the rock pile or in the brickyard and I think I shall enjoy it."

Harriman Gets Another Railroad.

New York, June 17.—The sale of Central of Georgia railway to the Illinois Central railroad, carrying out plans foreseen more than a year ago, is announced. The transaction originated in negotiations culminating in November, 1907, when the entire capital stock of the Central of Georgia passed into the hands of William Nelson Cromwell and John W. Cassler for E. H. Harriman, whose intention it was then stated, was to transfer it to the Illinois Central. The price paid by the Illinois Central was not given out.

New York Brokers Bankrupt.

New York, June 17.—W. H. Smith & Co., one of the best-known members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, suspended business, after the institution of bankruptcy proceedings by Henry Frost and Henry Anderson, brothers of New York, and Archibald Graham, a Paterson, N. J., broker. The petitioners claim agency commissions to the amount of $1,905.

Three Submarines Are Launched.

Quincy, Mass., June 17.—Three new submarine boats of the United States navy were launched at the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company here. The boats are the Grayling, Bonito and Snapper.

$400,000 Fire in Piano Plant.

New York, June 17.—Fire did damage to the big piano factory of Hardman, Peck & Co., estimated at $400,000. Two wings of the plant were destroyed.

Teller Arrested; $40,000 Missing.

New York, June 17.—Forty thousand dollars is missing from the vaults of the Clinton branch of the Jefferson bank, a small private institution, whose teller, Paul Endemann, was arrested yesterday in Brooklyn. The police say Endemann has confessed. The bank's loss may reach $75,000.

Lutherans Meet in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, June 17.—The nineteenth convention of the English Evangelical Lutheran synod of the northwest opened in Milwaukee last night and will continue until Monday next. The synodical sermon was preached by the president, Rev. A. J. Reichert of Redwing, Minn.

Keels Laid for Four Battleships.

St. Petersburg, June 17.—The keels of four battleships of the greater Dreadnought type were laid in St. Petersburg in the presence of the vice-minister of marine, the foreign naval attaches and representatives of the Russian Naval League.

To Meet in Rock Island.

Red Wing, Minn., June 17.—The Augustana Synod of America has selected Rock Island, Ill., as its next meeting place. Further discussion of the proposed new constitution was tabled until 1911. The synod completed its work last night.

POLICE BAR "GOLDEN RULE."

Cleveland Chief's Plan Not Favored by National Convention.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 17.—Quite a commotion was caused at the police chiefs' convention by the reading of a paper by Chief Fred Kohler of Cleveland, describing his "Golden Rule" system, and an effort by some of Kohler's admirers to have adopted a resolution endorsing that method of policing a city. For two hours the debate waxed warm, and it appearing that bitterness would be engendered in the association if a vote was had, the introducer withdrew it for harmony's sake.

NEW POTATO-DIGGER

Not Only Digs Up Potatoes, but Shovels Them Into Wagon.

Some of the most interesting inventions in recent years are those in the line of agricultural machinery. One of the latest of these is the potato-digger designed by an Indian man. It not only digs the potatoes up, but throws them into the wagon. The machine consists of a frame which is followed by a wagon, the whole drawn by a horse. Under the rear axle of this frame is a plow of spaced tines, which turns the earth up and sweeps up the potatoes, the dirt falling between the tines. Running around the axle and turning over a cylinder on the wagon box is an elevator mechanism made of chain with projections that take up the potatoes from the plow, the elevator belt revolves in the same direction as the wheels and the potatoes are tossed back into the wagon as fast as they are placed up. It now remains for somebody to design an improvement in this device whereby the potatoes are peeled on their way to the cart.

HANDY FIRE APPARATUS

Series of Buckets Take Up Little More Space Than One.

A compact and efficient fire-fighting apparatus that is a big improvement over the old-fashioned system, that required a series of buckets hanging along the wall, has been designed by a New York man. This apparatus consists of a tank, inside of which is a device for raising the buckets as they are lowered into it, so that only one bucket fits into the one below it, and they are thus "nested," a series of them occupying little more space than one would take up. The tank is filled with water or with some specially prepared fire-fighting fluid, and holds enough to lower each bucket. Being filled as it is drawn out, there is no time lost in refilling a bucket and running to another place to fill it, and everyone knows that speed is an essential feature in fighting flames. The apparatus works only down away with the assistance of a rope of buckets, but dispenses the work of combating the blaze to an important degree.

Of Hair Remover Free

A Positive Remedy That Takes Away Superfluous Hairy Growths Without Burning The Skin.

Some time ago it was stated in the columns of this paper that Free treatment would be sent to every woman who suffered from superfluous hair on her face, arms or legs. So many have accepted this generous offer that giant bottles were quickly exhausted and as requests are still coming from women in all parts of the country it has been decided to continue the offer for a while longer at least.

No Need Now for Hair on the Face. A Cure With Electrolysis Is a Cure That Lasts.

Upon more trial bottles of the wonderful remedy, Electrolysis, will be given away absolutely free to women constantly receiving requests of such magnitude, unduly because of the

No matter how heavy or light the growth, it can be destroyed in a few minutes with Electrolysis. There is no other remedy like it. It positively will not irritate, burn or scar the most tender skin, and never fails to remove even the most obstinate growth almost instantly. You who have tried so-called cures without success, can gain permanent, lasting effect with Electrolysis—without the pain, redness, or swelling that destroys the hair roots, the growth can never return.

To prove what we say, just write, enclosing a two-cent stamp to cover mailing, Electrolysis remedy, care $1.00 a bottle, and we will send you a free trial bottle of Electrolysis.

GOLF IN PORTO RICO.

"Of course, after we got settled down at our station in Porto Rico we wanted golf grounds," said an American officer in speaking of past days. "When we had looked around a bit we settled on a place of land and ascertained that it belonged to the mayor of the town. I went to him myself to see about leasing it. He was all courtesy and effusion, and though he did not know what golf was he said that he and several other citizens would be glad to join the club. He gave us the land without charge, and we went ahead and laid out the course. One day I met him and asked him for the names to be proposed, and he seemed a bit embarrassed as he replied: " "Senior, Captain, I do not think any of us care to join your club, though we wish it the most unbounded success."

"But I thought you liked to play golf," I replied.

"I myself thought I should like to, Senior, but after you spoke to me a few weeks ago I got a book and read up on it. I found that a player knocks a ball from hole to hole for a long distance."

"It is up hill, down hill and on the level?"

"Yes."

"He may have to walk miles in knocking the ball?"

"Yes."

"He cannot be carried in a hammock?"

"No."

"He cannot hire anyone to walk and knock for him?"

"No."

"Then I beg you to excuse us, Senior."

We wish you well, and some day we wish all come out and sit in the shade while you play the game, but I fear that none of us are equal to the occasion of being members."

Bleached Bread

Causes Dyspepsia, Stomach Trouble, Gastritis.

Government experts, after a most careful examination of Bleached Flour (the whitened kind generally in use), find it contains peroxide of nitrogen. The U. S. Govt. Pure Food Commissioner has ruled "the bleaching of flour is a violation of the Pure Food Law of 1906 and will have to be discontinued." Never eat bread or pastry made of bleached flour. Don't wait to change. Do it now.

Use only MARVEL Unbleached Flour. It is made in the good, old-fashioned, natural way, unbleached, from Best Wheat, is pure and wholesome, and retains all the strength and nutrition in the wheat. It makes Bread, Cake and Pastry that is most palatable and healthful, and is far more economical for your use than bleached flour.

For sale by all grocers. When you buy baker's bread insist on its being made of MARVEL Flour. It costs no more, and is pure and healthful.

SHEEPSKINS FOR NINE GRADUATES

MILTON COLLEGE COMMENCE-MENT HELD THIS MORNING.

U. S. AMBASSADOR SPEAKS

Hon. David Eugene Thompson, U. S.
Ambassador to Mexico, Made Commencement Address.
(Special to this Gazette.)

Milton, Wis., June 17.—This morning at ten o'clock the annual commencement exercises of Milton College were held, and nine graduates received diplomas. The graduates are:
Robert Vernon Hurley, Farnum, Neb.;
Harold Greene Ingham, Fort Wayne,
Ind.; Della Elizabeth Plumb, Milton;
Emma Rogers, Farnum, Neb.;
William Plumb Stewart, Edinburg, Ill.;
Lemuel Huffnagel, St. Louis, Mo.;
Clarence D. Stillman, Milton, Wis.;
Karl H. Henschel, St. Louis, Mo.;
All these received the degree of B. A.
A large number of the college orchestra and chorus under the direction of Dr. Stillman. The Hon.
David Eugene Thompson, United States Ambassador to Mexico, delivered the address to the graduates.

HON. DAVID EUGENE THOMPSON

His subject was "The Past, Present and Future of Our Country," and, in part, was as follows:
"It is a privilege and a distinction for me to attempt to bring before you anything new in regard to the illustrious history and glorious destiny of our great republic. But with your indulgence which must be in accord with the broadness of your learning, I shall attempt to illustrate to you those qualities which constitute the backbone of American character, and which are undoubtedly the cause of the past greatness of our country and the present exalted place occupying it among the nations of the earth. But first, in view of the peculiar fitness of the occasion, permit me to make a few observations upon education, particularly with reference to Milton College. A high degree of average intelligence and general education are among the necessary impulses for a country to possess a few educational institutions of great wealth and prestige, for equal opportunities to students of moderate circumstances are not afforded by institutions of the class named. They perform a great work, but it is only a minor service in the great educational work of the nation. Our public schools are of first importance in our educational system, in view of the service which they perform for the millions of our immigrants, and Whitman's educational system, crowned with its great university, ranks among the highest in efficiency and utility."

"It is both a privilege and a distinction to take part in the graduating ceremonies of one of the oldest of the great educational institutions of this state. Milton College was organized sixty-five years ago—four years prior to the admission of the state, and anticipates the public school system and university, as developed after the organization of the state government."
Mr. Thompson then gave a brief resume of difference between the time when the school was incorporated and the present, the primitive pioneer days and the glories of modern times. He traced the history of the college, how the nation at large declined to have anything to do with the institution, and its final triumph and influence. The momentous events which preceded, occurred in and followed the great civil war were also touched upon.

"The observation made," said the speaker, "will serve to indicate what memories cluster about a seat of learning which has survived all these eventful years. In proportion to its endurance, this school has had its part in these great achievements. It has sent out men and women equipped for the duties and responsibilities of higher citizenship, who have done battle for the causes which have made us a great people."

"The public is apt, at times, to overlook the peculiar opportunities offered to students by the smaller colleges.
The student without means finds an opportunity for a higher education that is in reach of personal achievement. Zeal and confidence in his prompt to achieve scholarship are the prompt to sustain the student who must earn his way, and Milton presents the opportunity of success to such a student. It receives him as a prince.
Self-support is here a mark of distinction, not of obligation. Our institutions aim to give equal opportunities, and let us hope that Milton's mission will be to open the door of opportunity to many who are well endowed and capable of great accomplishments."

From his description of the mission of the smaller colleges, the speaker turned to the subject of the early history of the United States, and what little promise the first attempts at colonization held forth for a great and united country.
He described the manner in which the new world had been divided among the nations of the old world, the subject "Think of myself" character of the immigrants and the bigotry and crudely of the creed-bound nations of Europe. In speaking of the character of these fearless colonists who were driven to the new world on account of their convictions, he said:

"It is from them that our greatest inheritance, that combination of courage, manliness, imperishable love of liberty, and firmness of principle which today constitute the distinctive qualities of the true American."

The rapid extension of the boundaries of the country, the influence of the telegraph and railroads in developing and settling the land, and their corresponding influence in making the United States one of the greatest manufacturing countries on the globe besides the financial independence of the U. S. were points all taken up in turn.

"But in the blessings which flow from our institutions, in the happiness derived by our people, in the equal opportunities afforded to all, which only an enlightened popular government can give, we are, thank God,
the greatest of all nations."
Mr. Thompson then took up the crises through which the United States has passed, the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, the great national leaders they produced and the need of a strong national government which they made clear. He also expressed his belief that it was not by chance that the country was but thinly populated when the great immigrations from the lands of bigotry and cruelty began, that it was not by chance that the colonies united as a single unit against England, that it was not by chance that Spain and France held their possessions until they could be safely used in the extension of our country nor was it by chance that the means of electrical communication and swift travel came concurrently with our Pacific Coast extension.

Mr. Thompson then quoted the God of Nations has watched over the destinies of this people.
From the problems that beset the nation in past days, Mr. Thompson went on to tell of the present-day difficulties, caused by the new possessions of the U. S. gained in the Spanish-American War. The problem of the conservation of natural resources, land, minerals, lumber, and water,
were also mentioned. In connection with the undeveloped condition of the South American Republics, the influence of the Isthmian Canal was mentioned together with the probable growth of the American merchant navies. Mr. Thompson ended his address with a prophecy that this country will reach the summit of its greatness; that it will make the first steps in that great crusade of international peace and confederation represented by The League of Nations.

"In conclusion, young ladies and gentlemen, let me say that the interesting history and greatness of our country, and the continuance of our institutions, rests with you. Free government has no measure so great as ignorance and superstition, and in the broad and liberal education of our boys and girls lies the strongest guarantee of our perpetuity as a nation.
Let us, then, see to it that no stone be left unturned, no step unmade, and the common-sense development and advancement of our educational system, and for the overhauling of the system of high and public schools among our people; for so long as our citizens are intelligent, earnest and patriotic, our Country's destiny is safe."

MONROE GRANTED THE LICENSES DEMANDED

Twenty-three Saloon Proprietors of Green County City Will be Allowed to Operate This Year.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Monroe, Wis., June 17.—Twenty-three saloon applications were favorably accepted by the city council on the recommendation of the committee on licenses. Recommendation was withheld on the application of Carl Vogt, who for years has conducted a saloon on the east side of the square.
The failure of the council to report on the application was followed by the filing of an application by Mr. Vogt's son, P. C. Vogt.

Monroe members of the Green County Automobile club will make a journey to Albany Sunday and will be joined there by Broadhead members of the club. Albany citizens will take the automobile up the river in boats for a picnic at the Sugar River cave. It is expected that at least twenty machines will go from Monroe.

HARMONY.

Harmony, June 16.—A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. James McNally, Mr. and Mrs. John McNally and family, John McNally and daughter Maud of Ithaca, Kansas, spent Sunday at Indian Ford with W. H. Flaherty where they took a lunch ride up the river to Koshkonong in Mr. Willie's launch. All report a very fine time.

Mrs. Margaret Robinson of Chicago is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jay Crowley and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Dunphy, Jr., went to Chicago Wednesday for a few days.

Miss Lizzie Doan of Janesville is visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. M. McNalley.

Mrs. Wm. Costigan spent Tuesday
in Janesville.

Mrs. Phil Costigan of Beloit spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Ann Costigan.

Master Willard Connor gave a party Tuesday, June 15th, in honor of his sixth birthday. Among those of his little friends present were: Paul and Meredith McNally, Margaret, Mary, Ann and Phillip Hayes, James Crowley, Cora Connor, and John Donna.

The afternoon was spent with games and refreshments which made the little folks all very happy.

Mrs. John McNally will give a progressive elch party Friday in honor of their company, Mr. John McNalley and daughter Maud.

Almost every one in Harmony attended the Milton college feats Tuesday night. The play was "The Merchant of Venice," and was put on in the very best way possible and the music was the best they have ever had at any of the plays given in the past. Everyone was much pleased with the arrangement.

AMUSEMENTS.

Elery Band at Harlem Park.
The memory of the delightful musical pilgrimages made by the people of this city last September to hear the great Elery Band at Harlem Park in Rockford is still fresh in the minds of every one who made the trip and it will be the best of news to them all to learn that they are to have an opportunity to renew those delights. It is announced that arrangements have been completed with Mr. Elery to have his matchless organization play an engagement of eleven days at Harlem Park commencing Wednesday afternoon, June 16th. Two concerts will be given every day, afternoon and evening, and those who were neglectful of their chances last season can now make up for their last time making the delightful excursion to Rockford and at the same time hearing a band that has no equal in America and no superior anywhere in the world.

KEEPS THE DOG HEALTHY

Kennel Made in Two Parts and Opens on Pair of Hinges.

A New Jersey man with an eye to the health and comfort of our canine friends has invented a kennel which will make the dog's life a happier one. The kennel is made in two parts and the top section opens on a hinge so that the straw may be aired every day and quickly changed when necessary. Straws on the lower part than the whole is a firm structure when closed. Animals, as well as human beings, are healthier when they live in clean surroundings and it is important that their bedding should be aired and kept clean.
With the new kennel it is easy to open the top each day and let the sunlight and fresh air purify the straw upon which the animal sleeps at night. People who have dogs for which they have real affection and who indulge these pets to a sometimes foolish degree, seldom think of paying ordinary attention to hygiene in the care of humans.

BRIDE WHO MARRIED FILIPINO HELD CAPTIVE BY HER MOTHER.
MRS. EVELYN H. ILL ALARKON.

Chicago.—Yielding her undying love for Leon Alarkon, Mrs. Evelyn Alarkon, a bride of but three days, is held captive by her mother. She is closely guarded at Mrs. A. C. Hill's home, 3658 Calumet avenue, waiting for a chance to escape from her parental roof and join her Filipino husband.

"I am going back to my husband, even though I am held a prisoner here for years," Mrs. Alarkon said yesterday. "I am willing to go to the Philippines, I think it necessary, and live with him in a hut. My mother can't keep us separated, for we love each other."

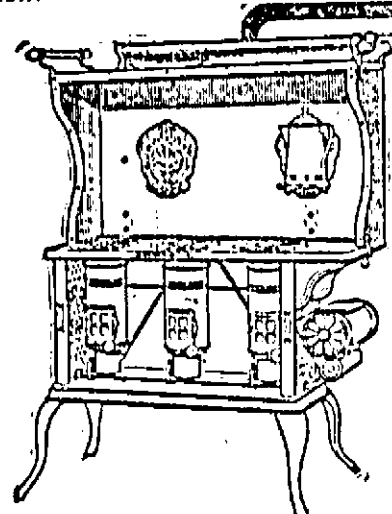

Leon Alarkon, a musician, 1215 Michigan avenue, who says he was a United States interpreter during the Spanish American War, met Evelyn Hill several weeks ago at the home of her mother. The Filipino agreed to give the girl lessons in Spanish, and in return she was to instruct him in piano playing. Last Tuesday they were married and two days later Mrs. Hill found them living in the Great Western hotel and forcibly took her daughter home.

Mrs. Hill was nearly prostrated by the wedding of her daughter and the hysterical. Neighbors are remaining with her in fear that in her hysterical condition she might attack her daughter.

"I'd rather see her dead and lying in a coffin than know she is the wife of that Filipino," said Mrs. Hill. "It drives me crazy to think that my daughter could have forgotten herself so far as to contract that marriage. She was hypnotized by Alarkon. She is still under his spell."

"Why, when he calls her on the telephone, just the sound of the bell ringing when he is at the other end of the line causes her to come under his control. Then it is an hour or so before we can bring her back to a true understanding of what she has done. I have Evelyn at her home, and so long as I live I will keep her away from Alarkon. I will ask to have the marriage annulled."

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1903, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"I guess you know what you mean by this," he said, tendering the weapon as per instructions. "I'm dogged if I do. You'll allow a certain latitude in consideration of my relief. I can't say we were anticipating this—ah—heaven sent visitation."

Accepting the revolver with his left hand and settling his forefinger on the trigger, Kirkwood beamed with pure enjoyment. He found the deference of the older man, tempered though it was by his indomitable swagger, refreshing in the extreme.

"A little appreciation isn't exactly out of place, come to think of it," he commented, adding, with an eye for the captain, "Stryker, you hold, but but, have you got a gun concealed about your neck?"

The captain shook visibly with contrition. "No, Mr. Kirkwood," he managed to reply in a voice singularly lacking to his wonted bluster.

"Say 'ah!'" suggested Kirkwood.

"No, Mr. Kirkwood, sir," amended Stryker eagerly.

"Now, come round here and let's have a look at you. Please stay where you are, Calendar. Why, captain, you are shivering from head to foot! Not ill are you, you wait? Step over to the table there, Stryker, and turn out your pockets; turn 'em inside out and let's see what you carry in the way of offensive artillery. And, Stryker, don't be rash; don't do anything you'd be sorry for afterward."

"No fear of that," mumbled the captain, meekly shuffling toward the table and, in his anxiety to give no cause for unpleasantness, beginning to empty his pockets on the way.

"Don't forget the 'sir,' Stryker. And, Stryker, if you happen to think of anything in the line of one of your merry quips or jests, don't strain yourself holding in. Get it right off your chest and you'll feel better."

Kirkwood chuckled, in high conceit with himself, watching Calendar out of the corner of his eye, but with his attention centered on the infinitely diverting spectacle afforded by Stryker, whose precarious hands were trembling violently as one by one they brought to light the articles of which he had despoiled his erstwhile victim.

"Come, come, Stryker! Surely you can think of something witty. Surely you haven't exhausted the possibilities of that almanac joke! Couldn't you ring another variation on the lunatic wheeze? Don't hesitate out of consideration for me, captain. I'm joke proof. Perhaps you've noticed."

Stryker turned upon him an expression at once ludicrous, piteous and hateful. "That's all, sir," he snarled, displaying his empty palms in token of his absolute tractability.

"Good enough. Now right about face—quick! Your back's prettier than your face, and, besides, I want to know whether your hip pockets are empty. I've heard it's the habit of you gentry to pack guns in your clothes. None? That's all right, then. Now roost on the transom over there in the corner, Stryker, and don't move. Don't let me hear a word from you. Understand?"

Submissively the captain retired to the indicated spot. Kirkwood turned to Calendar, of whose attitude, however, he had not been for an instant unmindful.

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Calendar?" he suggested pleasantly. "Forgive me for keeping you waiting."

For his own part, as the adventurer dropped passively into his chair Kirkwood stepped over Mulready and advanced to the middle of the cabin, at the same time thrusting Calendar's revolver into his own coat pocket. The other, Mulready's, he nursed significantly with both hands, while he stood temporarily quiet, surveying the fleshy face of the primo factor in the intrigue.

A quaint, grim smile played about the American's lips, a smile a little contemptuous, more than a little inscrutable. In its light Calendar grew restless and lost something of his assurance.

THUMPING HEADACHES.

Many Janesville Women Have Them, But Few Know the Real Cause.

Dull, thumping headaches, Sick, prostrating headaches, Dizzy, whirling, blind headaches, Point to disorders of the kidneys. Tell of uric poisons in the blood. Nerveless may ease the pain.

Don't let your kidneys cure the kid-boys.

Remove uric poisons, purify the blood.

Bluish headache, backache, urinary ills.

Here's Janesville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. Emma Hill, 418 S. Franklin St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered severely from pains in the small of my back for months. My head also ached at times and later the secretions from my kidneys began to pass irregularly. I was feeling miserable when someone told me to try Don's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply from the People's Drug Co. After using two or three boxes I was completely cured. I hope many other persons who are suffering from disordered kidneys will try Don's Kidney Pills and be convinced of their merit."

surprise. His feet smitten unawares beneath the table, and his dark eyes wandered, avoiding Kirkwood's. At length he seemed to find the suspense unendurable.

"Well," he demanded testily, "what d'you want of me?"

"I was just wondering at you, Calendar. In the last few days you've given me enough cause to wonder, as you'll admit."

The adventurer plucked up spirit, dejected by Kirkwood's pacific tone. "I wonder at you, Mr. Kirkwood," he retorted. "It was good of you to save my life, and—"

"I'm not so sure of that! Perhaps it had been more humane!"

Calendar owned the touch with a very grimace. "But I'm hanged if I understand this high handed attitude of yours!" he concluded heatedly.

"Don't you?" Kirkwood's humor became less apparent, the smile sobering. "You will," he told the man, adding abruptly, "Calendar, where's your daughter?"

The restless eyes sought the companionway.

"Dorothy," the man lied spontaneously, without a tremor, "is with friends in England. Why? Did you want to see her?"

"I rather expected to."

"Well, I thought it best to leave her home, after all."

"I'm glad to hear she's in safe hands," commented Kirkwood.

The adventurer's glance analyzed his face. "Ah," he said slowly, "I see. You followed me on Dorothy's account, Mr. Kirkwood?"

"Partly—partly on my own. Let me put it to you fairly. When you forced yourself upon me, back there in London, you offered me some sort of employment. When I rejected it, you used me to your advantage for the furtherance of your purposes, which I confess I don't understand, and made me miss my steamer. Naturally when I found myself penniless and friendless in a strange country I thought again of your offer and tried to find you to accept it."

"Despite the fact that you're an honest man, Kirkwood?" The fat lips twitched with premature enjoyment.

"I'm a desperate man tonight, whatever I may have been yesterday." The young man's tone was both earnest and convincing. "I think I've shown that by my pertinacity in hunting you down."

"Well—yes," Calendar's thick fingers caressed his lips, trying to hide the drawing smile.

"Is that offer still open?"

His nonchalance completely restored by the frankness of the proposition, Calendar laughed openly and with a trace of irony. The episode seemed to be turning out better than he had anticipated. Gently his mottled fat fingers played about his mouth and chin as he looked Kirkwood up and down.

"I'm sorry," he replied, "that it isn't—now. You're too late, Kirkwood. I've made other arrangements."

"Too bad," Kirkwood's eyes narrowed. "You force me to harsher measures, Calendar."

Gradually diverted, the adventurer laughed a second time, tipping back in his chair, his huge frame shaking with ponderous enjoyment. "Don't do anything you'd be sorry for," he parroted, sarcastical, the young man's recent admonition to the captain.

"No fear, Calendar. I'm just going to use my advantages, which you wouldn't dispute." The plot described an eloquent circle, gleaming in the lamplight—"to lery on you a little legitimate blackmail. Don't be alarmed. I shan't hit you any harder than I have to."

"What?" stammered Calendar, astonished. "What are you driving at?"

"Recompense for my time and trouble. You've cost me a pretty penny, first and last, with your nasty little conspiracy, whatever it's all about. Now, needing the money, I purpose getting some of it back. I shan't precisely rob you, but this is a holdup, all right. Stryker," reproachfully, "I don't see your pearl pin."

"I got it 'ere," responded the sailor hastily, fumbling with his tie.

"Give it me, then," Kirkwood held out his hand and received the trinket. Then, moving over to the table, the young man, while absently nothing of his watchfulness, sorted out his belongings from the mass of odds and ends Stryker had disgorged. The tale of them was complete. The captain had obeyed him faithfully. Kirkwood looked up, pleased.

"Now, see here, Calendar, this collection of trinkets that I was robbed of by this resurrected Joe Miller here cost me upward of $150. I'm going to sell it to you at a bargain—say $50, 250 francs."

"The dozen you are!" Calendar's eyes opened wide, partly in admiration. "Do you realize that this is next door to highway robbery, my young friend?"

"High seas piracy, if you prefer," assented Kirkwood with entire equanimity. "I'm going to have the money, and you're going to give it up. The transaction by any name would smell no sweeter, Calendar. Come—fork over!"

"And if I refuse?"

"I wouldn't refuse if I were you."

"Why not?"

"The consequences would be too painful."

"You mean you'd puncture me with that gun?"

"Not unless you attack or attempt to follow me. I mean to see that the Belgian police are notoriously if most efficient body and that I'll make it my duty and pleasure to introduce 'em to you if you refuse. But you won't."

Kirkwood added soothingly, "will you, Calendar?"

"No." The adventurer had become suddenly thoughtful. "No, I won't. Glad to oblige you."

He tilted his chair still farther back, straightening out his elephantine legs, inserted one fat hand into his trousers pocket and with some difficulty extracted a combined bill fold and coin purse, at once heavy with gold and bulky with notes. Moistening thumb and forefinger, "How'll you have it?" he inquired, with a lift of his curling eyes, and, when Kirkwood had advised him, slowly counted out four fifty-franc notes, placed them near the edge of the table and weighted them with five ten-franc pieces. And "That all?" he asked, replacing the pocketbook.

"That will be about all. I leave you presently to your unholy devices, you and that gay dog over there." The captain squirmed, reddening. "Just by way of precaution, however, I'll ask you to wait in here till I'm off." Kirkwood stepped backward to the door of the captain's room, opened it and removed the key from the inside. "Please take Mulready in with you," he continued. "By the time you get out I'll be clear of Antwerp. Please don't think of retreating me. I really mean it."

The latter clause came sharply as Calendar seemed to hesitate. His weary, wary eyes glimmering with doubt, Kirkwood, watching him as a cat her prey, intercepted a lightning swift sidelong glance that shifted from his face to the port lockers, forward. But the fat adventurer was evidently to a considerable degree deluded by the very childlike simplicity of Kirkwood's attitude. If the possibility that his alteration with Mulready had been overheard crossed his mind, Calendar had little choice other than to accept the chance. Either way he moved the risk was great. If he refused to be locked in the captain's room, there was the danger of the police, to which Kirkwood had conspicuously drawn attention. If he accepted the temporary imprisonment, he took a risk with the gladstone bag. On the other hand, he had estimated Kirkwood's honesty as thoroughly from their first interview. He had appraised him as a gentleman and a man of honor. And he did not believe the young man knew, after all. Perplexed, at length he chose the smoother way and, with an indignant lifting of eyebrows and fat shoulders, rose and waddled over to Mulready.

"Oh, all right," he conceded, with deep toleration in his tone for the idiosyncrasies of youth. "It's all the same to me, ben." He laughed a nervous laugh. "Come along and lend us a hand, Stryker."

The latter glanced timidly at Kirkwood, his eyes pleading for leave to move, which Kirkwood accorded with an imperative nod and a fine flourish of the revolver. Promptly the captain sprang to Calendar's assistance, and, between the two of them, the one taking Mulready's hand, the other his feet, they huzzed him quickly into the stuffy little stateroom. Kirkwood, watching and following to the threshold, inserted the key.

"One word more," he conned, a hand on the knob. "Don't forget I've warned you what'll happen if you try to break even with me."

"Never fear, little one." Calendar's laugh was nervously cheerful. "The Lord knows you're welcome."

"Thank you most to death," responded Kirkwood politely. "Goodby and goodby to you, Stryker. Glad to have humored your desire to meet me soon again."

Drawing the Line.

A new authority has decided that "under certain circumstances" a man may play poker with only four cards.

But if he wants to play with six the player must get his gun out ahead of the other fellow.—Boston Herald.

DOES THIS MEAN YOU?

Indigestion, sour stomach, constipation—then headache, backache and a general miserable feeling. Do you know that the pleasant herb tea, Lane's Family Syrup will remove all these troubles almost immediately? If you do not know it, get a package today at any druggist's or dealer's store and you will be glad we told you.

Just as some foods will make the bowels active, so do Cascarets. Their results don't come through irritation, as with harsh cathartics, but in Nature's way. So you can take them any hour. No need to wait till bedtime.

Visit-pocket box, 10 cents—at drug-stores. Each tablet of the genuine is marked C.C.

HERE is the butcher who, having cash.

To the dry goods merchant's made a dash.

For he saw an ad. of a special sale of things that people order by mail. And he paid for all the things he bought.

With the same money he had got from the grocer who had settlement made.

With the money the honest workman paid.

P.S.—The local dealer who's up to snuff will always advertise his stuff.

The Woman Who Knows

The woman who knows how silk gloves differ looks for "Kaysers" in the hem.

And she looks for the guarantee.

For she knows that Kaysers are the finest silk gloves in existence, as they have been for 25 years.

She knows that poor gloves cost as much as the Kaysers, and never wear half so long.

She wants the Kayser fabric, fit and finish, and the Kayser double tip.

All women want Kaysers, but some women don't get them because they don't look in the hem.
